TRUMAN SHAKES FIST AT RUSSIA

Explosion Expected In UN Meeting

Anti-Red Charge Due For Airing

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., March 17—The explosive issue of Soviet expansion today plunges the United Nations into what may be its most fateful task to date.

The 11-member Security Council will take up a Chilean charge today that Russia, in collusion with a Communist minority, used force to seize power in Czechoslovakia. Chile has asserted that the Soviet intervention is a threat to peace.

Already the battle lines are being drawn. Almost without exception, delegates at Lake Success are concerned with the deeper implications of the Chilean charge.

Those who take the gloomiest view, fear that the entire United Nations may be wrecked if the opposing sides in the argument find reconciliation impossible.

THREE HOURS before the Security Council was to meet, President Truman gave his momentous address to Congress on the world situation. The nature of the council discussions will no doubt largely be determined by what the chief executive said.

The nine non-Soviet members of the council, it is generally believed, will more or less follow the United States' lead. Reliable sources from the U. S. delegation circles say that the Americans are ready to support the Chilean request for an airing of the Czech crisis.

Russia and Ukraine obviously will vote against the move, while China is expected to abstain.

On procedural discussions, such as this, the veto does not apply, and Soviet Delegate Gromyko would either have to submit to the majority decision—or, as some observers anticipate—walk out.

In any event, Gromyko, who has already received his orders

Fine Weather For The Irish

The grass was showing a bit green over the Ohio countryside today, indicating that St. Patrick's Day can be a harbinger for Spring as well as an occasion for strutting by the Irish.

The weather was cooperating with the wearers of the shamrock in their annual parades over the nation. There was some sunshine to offset the nip in the air, but no rain or snow to spoil the exuberant occasion.

Weather forecasters said that it would turn a little colder tonight, with the mercury dropping to a low range of between 20 and 30 degrees over the state.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

A group of tailors has picked General Eisenhower as the best-dressed man in civilian life but he should be; He's got one of the newest suits.

Anyway these boys just haven't seen Admiral Bill Halsey in civvies. They tell me his sports jackets would have brought surrender as quickly as the atom bomb.

When Admiral Bill visited Bethlehem Steel plant they gave him a pair of dark glasses so he could look at a blast furnace. Then the furnace men put on their dark glasses so they could look at him.

All I know is that I was with him and on my next visit to my eye doctor he said, "I can see that you've been staring into the sun."

But it's nice to know that Ike has a good job and a good tailor. He's dressing up while most of the candidates are getting a dressing down.

'We Want Action,' Chief Of Police Told By Solon

"We don't want excuses, we want action," was Circleville Councilman Ray Anderson's reply Tuesday night to Police Chief William F. McCrady's request for a force of 12 men to ensure the enforcement of traffic and parking meter violations in the city.

The councilman reported that McCrady wanted the additional men for stricter enforcement.

Although the city solons made no reference to the matter in their regular business meeting, it was understood that the councilman's remark is an indication that the legislators may be doing some handwriting on the wall.

Four new men would be required to fulfill McCrady's request "at a cost of over $8,000 per year in additional wages," the spokesman said.

"If McCrady could do a good job with 12 men, why doesn't he do half a job with the force he already has?" the irked lawmaker wanted to know.

AT THE PRESENT, McCrady has six police under him, a desk man and extra men on Saturday night.

In a pointed reply at last council meeting, the city fathers emphasized they had nothing to do with the actual collections from

Commies Admit Arresting 200 Men In Coup

PRAGUE, March 17—The Czechoslovak justice ministry revealed today the arrest of at least 200 civilians and an unannounced number of military men since the Communist coup.

Justice Minister Alexej Cepicka declared that the arrests were made for alleged offenses against the state.

This first official admission regarding the number of arrests came in the course of a question and answer interview between Cepicka and two visiting British Labor Party members of parliament, Dick Crossman and Col. George Wigg.

CEPICKA declared that there is a definite connection between the alleged reactionary plotters and certain foreign countries. He did not identify the countries.

The justice minister said that the arrests were made on "reasonable suspicion of guilt."

Asked whether the governmental crisis resulted from political tactics of right wing parties or from a prearranged left wing putsch, Cepicka said: "It was proved beyond all doubt that the real putsch was being prepared by instigators of right wing parties."

parking meters except in the matter of reprimanding the police force should a laxity of the regulations occur.

The matter came up when only $749 was reported collected last month from the meters. Collections from other months often exceeded that figure by $300 to $400, councilmen pointed out.

Solon Promises Probe Of Bills Owed Hospital

John Eshelman, chairman of the hospital committee, Tuesday night assured Circleville city council of an immediate investigation into some $12,500 in delinquent bills owed to Berger hospital.

Councilman Robert A. Adkins at last meeting pointed out that some of the debtors have been carried on the books for as long as six years, "and it is high time some of those bills are being paid," he stated.

City Solicitor George Gerhardt informed Eshelman, action could be taken to collect the back bills by suing the debtors or hiring a collection agency to contact the delinquents.

Adkins said he had a complete list of all persons that owe bills at the hospital and would turn it over to Eshelman for him to take some action.

IN A RECOMMENDATION

report, both Adkins and Mayor Thurman I. Miller urged a council committee to visit the hospital and make a report on needed repairs.

Miller stated the interior needs repainted, part of the roof repaired and some plaster work to be done on ceilings and walls. Estimate on the cost was set at $1,000.

Council President Luther Bowser referred the investigation to the hospital committee for further study.

Objector Wants 'Unpardoned'

CLEVELAND, March 17—A suburban Cleveland Heights conscientious objector today asked President Truman to "reinstate me as an unpardoned ex-felon until such a time as you can acknowledge the fundamental right of all men to refuse to participate in a war."

The request was contained in a letter which Lee Donald Stern, 33, who served a four-year penitentiary term for violating the draft laws, sent to the President.

He was among the large group of conscientious objectors given full pardons by President Truman last year. He has joined the Quaker church and said that he intends to go to Paraguay to "live among a peace-loving brotherhood."

GOP Chiefs Say Unity Is Certain

Talk Highlights Are Detailed

WASHINGTON, March 17—The Republican leadership in Congress already has pledged the unity for which President asked in today's momentous message to the combined House and Senate.

House Speaker Joseph Martin, (R) Mass., declared before Mr. Truman spoke that the international crisis would be approached in the spirit of complete congressional unity of action.

Martin announced that Congress will forego its Easter recess in order to work upon the sweeping anti-Communist program laid down by Mr. Truman. The President made no mention of taxes in his address. It was apparent, however, that the Republicans will hold up further action on the $4.8 billion tax reduction bill until the costs of the defense program were ascertained.

IT MAY BE the Republicans will be forced to reduce or abandon the tax-cut bill.

Sen. Gurney, (R) S. D., chairman of the Senate armed services committee, said his committee will immediately begin consideration of the President's request for a temporary draft.

Gurney said he would question Secretary of State George Marshall on the draft later today when Marshall testifies on Universal Military Training.

The senator added that "developments" will determine whether the draft request is given priority over the longer-range UMT issue.

Defense Secretary Forrestal will appear before Gurney's committee tomorrow to outline his recommendations for the mobilization of the nation's arm.

Army Seeking Advice On Reserve Call

WASHINGTON, March 17—Army officials sought advice today on the legality of calling nearly a million National Guardsmen and reservists to active duty.

The Army emphasized that no reservists or guardsmen have been called up against their will, and that no such action is contemplated.

The question has arisen, however, as to the legality of active federal duty for the reserve components. It was suggested that it might be necessary to ask the attorney general for an official opinion as to whether the United States was still in a state of emergency.

Navy reservists, like their Army counterparts, can only be called up under emergency conditions.

The Army also sought ways and means of increasing the manpower of the regular establishment, which currently is about 130,000 under authorized strength of 670,000 officers and men.

Peace-Breaker Tag Hurlled At Moscow

President Says U.S. Must Ready To Pay Price Of World Peace

WASHINGTON, March 17—President Truman told Congress today that the United States must mobilize its armed might because Russia and her satellites have refused to cooperate for peace and world recovery.

The chief executive said that the Soviet Union and her subject states have refused an invitation to cooperate in the European Recovery Program.

Mr. Truman in his dramatic personal appearance before a joint session of congress asked for:

1. A return to the wartime draft.
2. Speedy enactment of Universal Military Training.
3. Immediate congressional approval of the Marshall Plan.
4. Support of the recently created union of five Western European democracies.
5. Immediate steps to bring the nation's armed forces to fully effective strength.

Michael Lashes Red Fraud, Terror

NEW YORK, March 17—Soviet rule in Romania was denounced today as a reign of "fraud and terror" by King Michael, who expressed hope that the Western Democracies would restore liberty throughout the world.

Michael told last night's Overseas Press Club dinner that Russia had broken a promise not to interfere in Romanian affairs.

Another speaker, John J. McCloy, president of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, also emphasized the hope being placed in the Western nations by a large part of the world.

McCloy called for an international staff with a European director to administer the European Recovery Program.

Inflation Hits Bonus Office

COLUMBUS, March 17—Inflation—short-lived—struck state veterans' bonus headquarters today, sending it higher than an Irishman in a St. Pat's Day parade.

It happened when an imposing banknote for 10,000 yen fluttered out of an envelope.

The accompanying letter was from Army Capt. Sam G. Vercoe, of Columbus stationed in Japan, who requested an application form for the bonus. He enclosed the banknote to cover mailing expenses.

The inflationary bubble burst quickly, however, when this inked bit of information was noted at the bottom of the bill: "10,000 yen equals nine cents U. S."

Meat Strike Continuing

Truman Board Reviewing Case

CHICAGO, March 17—The packinghouse workers strike moved into its second day today with the CIO union promising to cooperate with President Truman's board of inquiry but insisting that the nationwide walkout for wage increases will continue.

The strike, which began at 12:01 a. m. yesterday, already has crippled about one-half of the nation's meat production, and spokesmen for retail dealers forecast possible meat shortages if the walkout continues for more than a week.

An estimated one hundred thousand members of the CIO United Packinghouse Workers have been called out by the strike which has affected production in approximately 140 packing plants throughout the nation.

After President Truman named three members of the board of inquiry to investigate the walkout, Ralph Helstein, president of the union, said:

ERP Said Race Against Time

LONDON, March 17—A British spokesman announced today that his government considers "it a race against time whether the European Recovery Program or further Communist coups get in first" in non-Communist areas on the continent.

He said this view was taken by the government reluctantly after careful consideration of all factors, including Czechoslovakia's fate and Soviet overtures to Finland.

The spokesman analyzed Britain's purge of Communist elements from posts where they might bring harm to the nation. He said:

"Events in Europe made the danger more apparent. Communist moves recently moved from the realm of political expediency to become a matter of high military strategy involving strategic and tactical bases."

Coal Strike Strangling Industry

Steel Cutdowns Expected Soon

PITTSBURGH, March 17—Heavy industry studied plans for production cutbacks today as a nationwide strike of soft coal miners became virtually 100 percent effective, and transportation workers were furloughed.

Steel production was expected to be curtailed within a few days throughout most of the industry, due to dwindling coal reserves, unless the protest strike of the United Mine Workers is settled quickly.

The steel corporations would not indicate definitely when production would be lowered. Spokesmen said merely, "soon." Transportation workers in the coal regions already were feeling the effects of the three-day-old walkout. "Extra board" freight crews anticipated layoffs of several days between trips.

DOZENS OF towboats in the coal trade were docked along the Monongahela, Ohio and Kanawha rivers, and their crews furloughed.

At Huntington, W. Va., the coal-hauling Chesapeake and Ohio railroad posted signs that its shops will close Saturday.

The U. S. Bureau of Mines reported today the nation had a 29-day supply of coal Feb. 1, but that it probably would be less in the March 1 report, yet to be published.

Anything below a 30-day supply is considered "dangerous." Coal production in the nation yesterday was estimated

West European Union Pact Set For Signing

BRUSSELS, March 17—A Union of Western European Democracies comes into being today with the signing in Brussels of a five-power 50-year treaty designed to curb the advance of Communism.

The pact containing economic, social and cultural clauses also is reported to provide for mutual assistance against any aggression.

The treaty will be signed in the Belgian capital by the foreign ministers of Britain, France, Belgium, Luxembourg, and the Netherlands.

Full contents of the treaty, with possible military clauses, will not be made public until after the signing.

The formal initialing of the pact, depicted as an extension of the Dunkerque mutual aid agreement previously signed by Britain and France, coincides with increased activity in Paris to inaugurate the Marshall Plan.

Immediate steps were taken for the inclusion of the western occupation zones of Germany in the European Recovery Program which also is designed to combat the spread of Communism.

brought about the critical situation in Europe today.

"The tragic death of the Republic of Czechoslovakia has sent a shock throughout the civilized world.

Mr. Truman continued: "Now pressure is being brought to bear on Finland, to the hazard of the entire Scandinavian peninsula.

"Greece is under direct military attack from rebels actively supported by her Communist-dominated neighbors.

"In Italy, a determined and aggressive effort is being made by a Communist minority to take control of that country.

"The methods vary, but the pattern is all too clear."

Congress was told that "the recent developments in Europe present this nation with fundamental issues of vital importance."

The President said: "I believe that we have reached a point at which the position of the United States should be made unmistakably clear."

THE CHIEF executive declared that the principles of the United Nations charter "represent our hope for the eventual establishment of the rule of law in international affairs."

"We cannot, however, close our eyes to the harsh fact that through obstruction and even defiance on the part of one nation, this great dream has not yet become a full reality.

"It is necessary, therefore, that we take additional measures to supplement the work of the United Nations and to support its aims. There are times in world history when it is far wiser to act than to hesitate. There is some risk involved in action—there always is. But there is far more risk in failure to act."

Clerk Issues 50,000th Title

An automobile title issued Wednesday morning in Pickaway County clerk of courts office to Charles and Herman Hides of Ashville Route 1, appeared to be a routine matter to Deputy Clerk Martha Ebenbeck.

However, the little slip of paper marked a milestone in Clerk A. L. Wilder's tenure in office. He said it was the 50,000th title completed in the last 10 years.

Coal Strike Strangling Industry

at 200,000 tons, about 10 percent of normal, and was expected to be much less today.

With the exception of a comparatively few scattered deep and strip mines, activity had all but ceased as nearly all the country's 400,000 miners seized the strike weapon to enforce demands for $100-a-month pension plan.

The almost complete shutdown by the United Mine Workers came as steps were being taken for possible federal intervention and mine operators huddled charges of "contract violation" at UMW Chief John L. Lewis.

THE SHUTDOWN came during a serious international crisis, and at a time when industry's coal reserves generally were far below normal.

Within 48 hours the strike had mushroomed into a paralyzing movement—the first serious labor controversy since enactment of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Failure of the operators to set in motion machinery for a pension plan to miners over 60, and with 20 years of service, touched off the paralyzing walkout.

Provision for the pension system was contained in the current UMW contract, executed last July 8. It called for payment of a royalty of 10 cents on each ton of coal mined to provide the pension fund. The fund now approximates $30,000,000.

House-Buyers Buy Trouble

CLEVELAND, March 17—The Haynes brothers didn't know it, but they bought a big problem along with a new house yesterday in Cleveland.

The two young veterans, James and William, purchased the home, but when they walked in to take possession, they found it occupied by Mrs. Jessie Meyers, 69-year-old crippled, partly-deaf and hungry pensioner.

Mrs. Meyers had been left behind in the room where she boarded when the other tenants moved out. Unable to find another home for the aged woman, Mrs. Helen M. Haynes, the boys' mother, stayed by the woman's side all through the day.

The aid-for-aged office in Cleveland pleaded for a home for Mrs. Meyers, but the cheapest available was priced at $75 per month. Mrs. Meyers gets only $50 a month pension plus $10 from a son.

Expansion Set

CLEVELAND, March 17—Financial plans have been mapped to reduce class size and handle higher enrollment and to add 122 kindergarten teachers to Cleveland schools this year. Superintendent Mark Schinnerer said the plans had been worked into the $21,004,426.17 operating budget for 1948.

Beach Remains Aloof To Press

COLUMBUS, March 17—Harold Beach, convicted New Years sex-slayer of Cleveland's eight-year-old Sheila Ann Tuley faced his approaching execution calmly today but refused to answer all questions.

Beach, who arrived at the Ohio penitentiary yesterday afternoon, parried all the questions of newsmen with the statement:

"No comment. No comment."

Acting Warden Ralph W. Alvis said Beach was given the number 86478 and placed in the prison annex, reserved for all those to be executed. Beach is to die June 28 in the electric chair.

Deputies who brought the young murderer from Cleveland said he told them he expected to get his choice of meals on his first night in the penitentiary. However, Alvis said he received the regular prison fare of "two wienies, spaghetti, raisin pudding and a cup of milk."

Alvis added: "He'll get his choice on his last night."

"WE SHALL AFFORD every possible cooperation to the board of inquiry appointed by the president. It should be understood, however, that any board appointed under the Taft-Hartley law operates under the limitation of a statute designed to destroy the labor unions, and is merely a fact-finding agency."

The union originally sought a wage increase of 29 cents an hour but later agreed to accept nine cents an hour retroactive to Jan. 12 on the condition that the remaining 20 cents be arbitrated.

The packers rejected this proposal, insisting that they would hold to the nine-cent offer granted to the AFL-Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers.

President Truman's board of inquiry was instructed to report back to him April 1. The board will meet in Chicago today.

THE CHARGE that the Soviets had threatened the peace through their part in Czechoslovakia was originally raised by Jan Papanek, Czech delegate to the UN, who was repudiated by the new Communist regime.

Papanek has refused to yield his post despite the appointment of Vladimir Houdek by the Gottwald government in Prague.

Meanwhile the Security Council is awaiting tomorrow's report from the four major powers on Palestine. A reported backing down by France that a peace threat exists in the Holy Land ended hopes for such a declaration to the council.

WCTU Planning Long Crusade

COLUMBUS, March 17—A six-months crusade to secure an Ohio county option law was proposed to the Ohio Women's Christian Temperance union by its president today as a means of honoring the women who founded the organization in Hillsboro 75 years ago.

Miss Mary B. Ervin suggested that the crusade might secure enactment of the law through cooperation with the Temperance League and the Council of Churches.

Petitions, which Miss Ervin said would be ready soon, would have to be signed by eligible voters to the number of three percent of those who cast ballots for governor at the 1946 general election.

Then, if the petitions were approved and the legislature still refused to pass the proposal, an additional 70,000 signatures could place the question before the voters at the succeeding general election.

Freak Accident Costs Finger

Tom "Timmy" Eveland, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Eveland, East Main street, lost the first knuckle of the third finger on his right hand Tuesday night as the result of a freak accident in the Circleville high school gym.

Mack Schumm, high school student, said he and Eveland were playing basketball in the gym about 6:45 p. m. Tuesday when the ball lodged itself behind one of the tumbling mats hanging from the gym wall.

Eveland, Schumm said, jumped up to retrieve the ball, grasping an iron bar to aid his jump. The bar came loosened, tumbling to the floor and smashing Eveland's finger.

"Timmie" travelled to Columbus Wednesday noon to have the knuckle removed.

COLUMBUS, March 17—Harold Beach, convicted New Years sex-slayer of Cleveland's eight-year-old Sheila Ann Tuley faced his approaching execution calmly today but refused to answer all questions.

Beach, who arrived at the Ohio penitentiary yesterday afternoon, parried all the questions of newsmen with the statement:

"No comment. No comment."

Acting Warden Ralph W. Alvis said Beach was given the number 86478 and placed in the prison annex, reserved for all those to be executed. Beach is to die June 28 in the electric chair.

Deputies who brought the young murderer from Cleveland said he told them he expected to get his choice of meals on his first night in the penitentiary. However, Alvis said he received the regular prison fare of "two wienies, spaghetti, raisin pudding and a cup of milk." Alvis added: "He'll get his choice on his last night."

dent of the striking union, issued a statement which said:

"WE SHALL AFFORD every possible cooperation to the board of inquiry appointed by the president. It should be understood, however, that any board appointed under the Taft-Hartley law operates under the limitation of a statute designed to destroy the labor unions, and is merely a fact-finding agency."

The union originally sought a wage increase of 29 cents an hour but later agreed to accept nine cents an hour retroactive to Jan. 12 on the condition that the remaining 20 cents be arbitrated.

The packers rejected this proposal, insisting that they would hold to the nine-cent offer granted to the AFL-Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers.

President Truman's board of inquiry was instructed to report back to him April 1. The board will meet in Chicago today.

Will Probated

THE CHARGE that the Soviets had threatened the peace through their part in Czechoslovakia was originally raised by Jan Papanek, Czech delegate to the UN, who was repudiated by the new Communist regime.

Papanek has refused to yield his post despite the appointment of Vladimir Houdek by the Gottwald government in Prague.

Meanwhile the Security Council is awaiting tomorrow's report from the four major powers on Palestine. A reported backing down by France that a peace threat exists in the Holy Land ended hopes for such a declaration to the council.

WCTU Planning Long Crusade

COLUMBUS, March 17—A six-months crusade to secure an Ohio county option law was proposed to the Ohio Women's Christian Temperance union by its president today as a means of honoring the women who founded the organization in Hillsboro 75 years ago.

Miss Mary B. Ervin suggested that the crusade might secure enactment of the law through cooperation with the Temperance League and the Council of Churches.

Petitions, which Miss Ervin said would be ready soon, would have to be signed by eligible voters to the number of three percent of those who cast ballots for governor at the 1946 general election.

Then, if the petitions were approved and the legislature still refused to pass the proposal, an additional 70,000 signatures could place the question before the voters at the succeeding general election.

Freak Accident Costs Finger

Tom "Timmy" Eveland, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Eveland, East Main street, lost the first knuckle of the third finger on his right hand Tuesday night as the result of a freak accident in the Circleville high school gym.

Mack Schumm, high school student, said he and Eveland were playing basketball in the gym about 6:45 p. m. Tuesday when the ball lodged itself behind one of the tumbling mats hanging from the gym wall.

Eveland, Schumm said, jumped up to retrieve the ball, grasping an iron bar to aid his jump. The bar came loose, tumbling to the floor and smashing Eveland's finger.

"Timmy" travelled to Columbus Wednesday noon to have the knuckle removed.

Panel OKs Annexation Of Eastmoor

Lack Of Funds Delays Action

Circleville city council's service committee Tuesday night recommended acceptance of the Eastmoor subdivision into the city corporation with the provision that all sewer installations and construction costs be excluded from the city.

The property is between Franklin and Mound streets and was laid out by Annie M. Heise.

In the ordinance read for the first time at last council meeting, it was asked that council authorize acceptance of the land. However, the matter was referred to the service committee. Councilman Ray Anderson, chairman of that committee, also reported a request made by Leslie Brucker who wanted the city to provide sewage on four sites he intends to build in the south end of town.

THE COUNCILMAN recommended that no action be taken on the request this year because of lack of funds and because "there are too many other sewer projects under consideration."

In answer to his quick reply to last meeting's business which was referred to his committee, Anderson said:

"We're not going to pigeon-hole anything referred to the service committee as long as I'm chairman."

An ordinance which would transfer some $5,140 from city funds to allow for pay increases which were granted city employees, was returned from the finance committee to council for further action at next meeting.

The matter was referred to the committee when it was learned council had approved the pay hikes without making the necessary appropriations in the various city funds.

The ordinance will come up for second reading when council meets again April 6. The report of the finding was made by Ray Cook, chairman of the finance committee.

City Panel Reinstates Contracts

Engineer, Banks Are Affected

Circleville city council Tuesday night unanimously passed an ordinance to reinstate a supplemental contract with the Burgess and Niple Sanitary Engineers of Columbus, and adopted a resolution to redesignate city depositories.

Passed on first reading, the new law provides for a supplemental contract based on the same cost rate as the previous contract with the Columbus firm.

It authorizes the board of public utilities to enter the contract at the same low cost rates as the city enjoyed on other work done by the sanitary engineers. The bill was passed in the face of requests from many quarters for sewage repairs in various sections of town. Also the city sees the need for drawing plans and specifications for several sewage improvements.

REDESIGNATED as city depositories were the First, Second and Third National Banks and the Circleville Savings and Banking Co.

The ordinance directs the city treasurer to continue depositing funds, but in return gain adequate protection for any amount over the $5,000 limit. City Solicitor George Gerhardt pointed out this was actually nothing new, but merely a renewal. He said council adopts this redesignation once every year as a matter of form.

An ordinance to pay H. V. Morris of Columbus $13.50 for reported damage to his car last Aug. 17, in a collision with a city-owned vehicle was referred

'Pump-Crete' To Hasten Work At GE

New Gadget Pours Cement Swiftly

Work Wednesday on the new Circleville 2.5 million dollar General Electric factory was steadily creeping eastward.

Although rains this week have made the conditions at the site more muddy than before, the addition of a new concrete pouring machine—the "pump-crete"—is expected by construction officials to speed up operations.

The "pump-crete" is small in proportion to the amount of output it produces, standing but about seven feet high with a small hopper of less than five feet in diameter topping the rubber-tired engine base.

HOWEVER, the machine is capable of transmitting a three-inch stream of concrete anywhere within a thousand foot radius. This means concrete can be poured at almost any point at the new site without any vehicle being bogged down, as was the case before the gadget's arrival.

Mud still hampers carpenters who make footer forms into which the concrete will be set, but progress is being accomplished at a slow pace.

The Norfolk and Western Railroad spur now approaches within crane-reaching distance of the southern "back" wall, and soon will bring an assortment of brick, structural steel and wood for construction.

This work will begin on the west end of the proposed plant and progress with the concrete-laying work eastward.

Companion Cropping In Freedom Garden

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Distributed by Central Press Association

COMPANION cropping is especially valuable in a small Freedom garden where of necessity the vegetable area is limited.

It calls for the growing of two or more crops on the same land at one time. They are usually, but not always, planted at the same time, allowing only sufficient space for them to mature one at a time. The early crop matures before the other group is large enough to need all the space.

The above Garden-Graph shows this double use of the same area by planting the root crops, such as beets and carrots, turnips or parsnips, which require a long growing period, alternately with early maturing vegetables, such as green onions, lettuce and spinach.

Plant the root crops in rows two feet apart, and the rows of early vegetables in between, so that all the rows are one foot apart. When the root crops are large and need extensive cultivating, the early crops will have been harvested, allowing the necessary room for a hand cultivator or wheel hoe.

In a variation of companion cropping, early peas are sometimes grown with fairly late plantings of sweet corn. Such shade as the growing corn may give the peas in the last stages of their growth is likely to be beneficial.

Pumpkins or squash are sometimes planted among the hills of early sweet corn, three or four weeks after the corn is planted. If the corn stalks are cut just as soon as the crop is picked, the pumpkins come on and occupy the area fully, but they do grow as a companion crop with the corn for several weeks.

200 Youths Hold Final Rehearsal

Music Festival Due Thursday

With a final touchup rehearsal Wednesday morning the Pickaway County orchestra and chorus readied themselves for their annual Music Festival to be given at 8:15 p. m. Thursday in the Jackson Township high school auditorium.

The program, given by nearly 200 Pickaway County musicians, will be presented in two parts—the first an instrumental program under the direction of Fred Brobst, Ashville music instructor.

The second part is to be Calvary Lenten Cantata under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Penney, music instructor at the Monroe Township school.

The orchestra will be featured in the first part of the program with three selections, followed by part two of the affair which will consist of 17 vocal selections.

The second portion of the evening highlights many individual voices in the county school system, nearly half of the 17 selections solos or small groups. Annette Thomas will be accompanist for the vocal portion of the program.

South Australia's government has sent to England for 100 women teachers.

Final Accounts Are Received On 5 Estates

Final accounts on five estates were approved Monday by Judge Sterling M. Lamb in Pickaway County probate court.

In approving the estate of Ella Stong, the records showed $1,002.66 remaining due to the estate after receipts and disbursements were tallied.

Receipts were $2,131.32 and expenditures, $1,128.66. The papers were filed by Wealtha V. Abernethy, executrix-trustee.

The second estate to show a balance due was that of Mame Hulise in which $37.50 still is owed to the account. In papers filed by Edward Hulise, administrator, receipts amounted to $606.20 and expenditures were set at $568.70.

JUDGE LAMB stamped approved the estate of Matilda Redman in which both receipts and expenses were equal at $2,652.25. The records were filed

New Gadget Pours Cement Swiftly

Work Wednesday on the new Cincinnati 2.5 million dollar General Electric factory was steadily creeping eastward.

Although rains this week have made the conditions at the site more muddy than before, the addition of a new concrete pouring machine—the "pump-crete"—is expected by construction officials to speed up operations.

The "pump-crete" is small in proportion to the amount of output it produces, standing but about seven feet high with a small hopper of less than five feet in diameter topping the rubber-tired engine base.

HOWEVER, the machine is capable of transmitting a three-inch stream of concrete anywhere within a thousand foot radius. This means concrete can be poured at almost any point at the new site without any vehicle being bogged down, as was the case before the gadget's arrival.

Mud still hampers carpenters who make footer forms into which the concrete will be set, but progress is being accomplished at a slow pace.

The Norfolk and Western Railroad spur now approaches within crane-reaching distance of the southern "back" wall, and soon will bring an assortment of brick, structural steel and wood for construction.

This work will begin on the west end of the proposed plant and progress with the concrete-laying work eastward.

Companion Cropping In Freedom Garden

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Distributed by Central Press Association

COMPANION cropping is especially valuable in a small Freedom garden where of necessity the vegetable area is limited.

It calls for the growing of two or more crops on the same land at one time. They are usually, but not always, planted at the same time, allowing only sufficient space for them to mature one at a time. The early crop matures before the other group is large enough to need all the space.

The above Garden-Graph shows this double use of the same area by planting the root crops, such as beets and carrots, turnips or parsnips, which require a long growing period, alternately with early maturing vegetables, such as green onions, lettuce and spinach.

Plant the root crops in rows two feet apart, and the rows of early vegetables in between, so that all the rows are one foot apart. When the root crops are large and need extensive cultivating, the early crops will have been harvested, allowing the necessary room for a hand cultivator or wheel hoe.

In a variation of companion cropping, early peas are sometimes grown with fairly late plantings of sweet corn. Such shade as the growing corn may give the peas in the last stages of their growth is likely to be beneficial.

Pumpkins or squash are sometimes planted among the hills of early sweet corn, three or four weeks after the corn is planted. If the corn stalks are cut just as soon as the crop is picked, the pumpkins come on and occupy the area fully, but they do grow as a companion crop with the corn for several weeks.

Pet Karshner, Mrs. Margaret Hillard and Mrs. Norwood Jinks. Refreshments were served to 13 members and seven visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Fetherolf have moved back to their farm on Pine. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Notestone will move into home vacated by Fetherolf and Mr. and Mrs. Rockford Swackhamer will move into home vacated by Notestones.

Apostolic church bought the Presbyterian church and had their first meeting in it Tuesday evening. Rev. S. R. Hamby, Logan, is the minister.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Wiggins and children were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Keller and daughter, Portsmouth.

The Presbyterian Aid met Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Harley Armstrong with her daughter, Violet, assisting. Mrs. Armstrong gave devotion.

200 Youths Hold Final Rehearsal

Music Festival Due Thursday

With a final touchup rehearsal Wednesday morning the Pickaway County orchestra and chorus readied themselves for their annual Music Festival to be given at 8:15 p. m. Thursday in the Jackson Township high school auditorium.

The program, given by nearly 200 Pickaway County musicians, will be presented in two parts—the first an instrumental program under the direction of Fred Brobst, Ashville music instructor.

The second part is to be Calvary Lenten Cantata under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Penney, music instructor at the Monroe Township school.

The orchestra will be featured in the first part of the program with three selections, followed by part two of the affair which will consist of 17 vocal selections.

The second portion of the evening highlights many individual voices in the county school system, nearly half of the 17 selections solos or small groups. Annette Thomas will be accompanist for the vocal portion of the program.

South Australia's government has sent to England for 100 women teachers.

Final Accounts Are Received On 5 Estates

Final accounts on five estates were approved Monday by Judge Sterling M. Lamb in Pickaway County probate court.

In approving the estate of Ella Stong, the records showed $1,002.66 remaining due to the estate after receipts and disbursements were tallied.

JUDGE LAMB stamped approved the estate of Matilda Redman in which both receipts and expenses were equal at $2,652.25. The records were filed

Holy Land Compares To Frontier

Travel Likened To Old Santa Fe

HAIFA, March 17—There are many phases of Palestine today which are strongly reminiscent of the early stages of American pioneering—and none is more so than the matter of travel from city to city through hotly-contested areas.

It has been said before that making the supply run from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem is much like the early stage-coach days along the Santa Fe Trail, with the exception of certain twentieth century innovations such as the motor-bus and the sten-gun.

Travel up the Palestinian coast from Tel Aviv to the seaport city of Haifa is even more similar to the old southwestern stage-coach and Wells-Fargo express runs.

Leaving Tel Aviv, you can travel the majority of the way in comparative safety, by ordinary bus, taxi or private car.

All along the way you see constant proof that Jew and Arab can live side by side in peace—if left alone—just as along the Santa Fe trail there were countless instances of white men and Indian tribes living together in peace.

YOU PASS through many modern Jewish communities, where the inroads of Western civilization are so marked that the towns might well have been literally lifted from a dozen different American states.

Also, you drive through almost as many Arab areas, where the mode of life seems to have undergone little change in the past four thousand years.

But the point of all this is that you can pass freely and, for the most part, in perfect safety through the area.

But then, after more miles of sand, spotted with the oases of Jewish Kibbutzim or Arab's farm, you reach the changing point of Sichron-Yaakov.

From here on in, peace has flown out the window and all traffic is subjected to constant sniping and sometimes is waylaid and ambushed by roving Arab bands.

Sichron-Yaakov is an oasis in itself. A large parking area for buses, trucks and other vehicles is the central point of meeting. Under the fruit trees lining one side of the lot are small stands where you can get orange juice or candy bars.

BUT, JUST as the stage-coaches used to stop to change horses, here your stop is chiefly to change into an armored bus.

The travelers are as motley a crowd as they must have been on the stage-coaches, except that there are more of them—but they're just as jammed, despite the size of the armored buses.

There is no smoking, for the only ventilation is through the six shooting slits in the sides, and these are closed most of the way.

It's a fast and furious run, for the drivers know—as did the stage-coach drivers—that speed is a life-saving factor when there are dry-gulchers lurking in the hills.

The routine departs from its historical precedent when you reach your destination, for you still have a local gauntlet to run—getting a taxi to take you from the bus station through the Arab sector of Haifa to a Jewish hotel, or vice versa.

There may be more sniping on the streets than there was in the hills. But then, there used to be factional fights within the frontier towns, too.

Ships To Move In Lake Parade

CLEVELAND, March 17 — A novel sort of St. Patrick's Day parade will take place on Lake Erie today.

The Lake Carriers Association in Cleveland said that a fleet of some 12 freighters will move out of the Buffalo harbor in the wake of the U. S. Coast Guard Ice-Breaker Mackinaw.

The boats will be heading up the lakes for the opening of the navigation season.

Aboard the Mackinaw to coordinate the movement of the flotilla will be a son of the old sod, Captain Patrick Joseph Healy, of the Boland and Cornelius Co. of Buffalo.

GENERALS AS PRESIDENTS

AT LAST a general has been found who is willing to run for President. Marshall and Eisenhower have refused, but MacArthur is ready. What has been American experience with military Presidents?

Professional soldiers should be distinguished from civilians who took part in the nation's wars. Washington, Jackson, the two Harrisons, Pierce, Hayes, Garfield, McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt all had military experience, but did not make the army their life work.

Only two Regular Army men became President, Taylor and Grant. While Taylor died after only a little more than a year in the presidency, he had already shown an unfamiliarity with political management, and a military insistence on having his orders obeyed, that was making trouble. A head-on collision between North and South was looming up, which veteran statesmen like Henry Clay were trying to stave off by compromise. Taylor opposed compromise; only his death made its passage possible, and postponed war for another ten years.

Grant's presidency was a tragic failure. He, too, was ignorant of political management, and his reliance on corrupt friends made his two terms the most sordid on record until the Harding administration equalled or surpassed them.

These are ominous precedents for MacArthur.

PEARL HARBORING

IS THE United States a Pearl Harbor kind of country? Walter Winchell seems to think we are and should be, for recently he openly advocated dropping several atomic bombs on the Russians. Whether without a declaration of war, as the Japanese acted, or with a simultaneous declaration, makes no difference. Such treachery would stain the American name forever.

These outbursts complicate immensely the task of our government at Washington. They bring war nearer by many days. Suppose Ehrenburg or some other Russian radio speaker called for dropping bombs on Washington, would that not be spread far and wide over the United States as proof that the Russians planned immediate war?

Speakers with the large audience commanded by some radio commentators should think twice before pouring oil on international flames. News is one thing. Responsibility in handling it is also important.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

"The Devil and Jimmy Byrnes," published by the magazine "Soviet Russia Today," is by Prof. Frederick L. Schuman of Williams college. Schuman is undoubtedly a scholar and what he is discussing in this pamphlet is the evil of American foreign policy, which has, one must admit, been a fumbling business. Schuman describes that policy as follows:

"In mealy-mouthed self-righteousness, (Byrnes) paints a portrait of American diplomacy dedicated consistently to peace, democracy, freedom and rectitude, and constantly obstructed in its quest for virtue by Soviet wickedness. Russian 'expansionism' is alarming and clearly sinful, in contrast to American expansionism which is at once noble and non-existent. Russian expansionism, it seems, is old. Karl Marx is quoted against it. Bolshevik expansionism is more dangerous than Tsarist expansionism because it has an 'aggressive ideology'."

Very sarcastic that, but not too clear. What Schuman is trying to say is that the United States is the pot calling the kettle black. But he omits to say that the United States has not taken one inch of territory in Europe whereas Soviet Russia, has by one means or another, stolen Finland, Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, Poland, Rumania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Albania, Hungary, and is now moving on Italy.

Not one word does he say about the fact that from July 1, 1940, to June 30, 1947, the United States gave Europe and Asia aid amounting to $73,000,000,000 and that of this amount $24,000,000,000 has been given since the end of the war. And that we are now legislating to add to that at least $5,300,000,000, not counting what goes to China, Greece, Turkey, Japan and Germany. Furthermore, Schuman says:

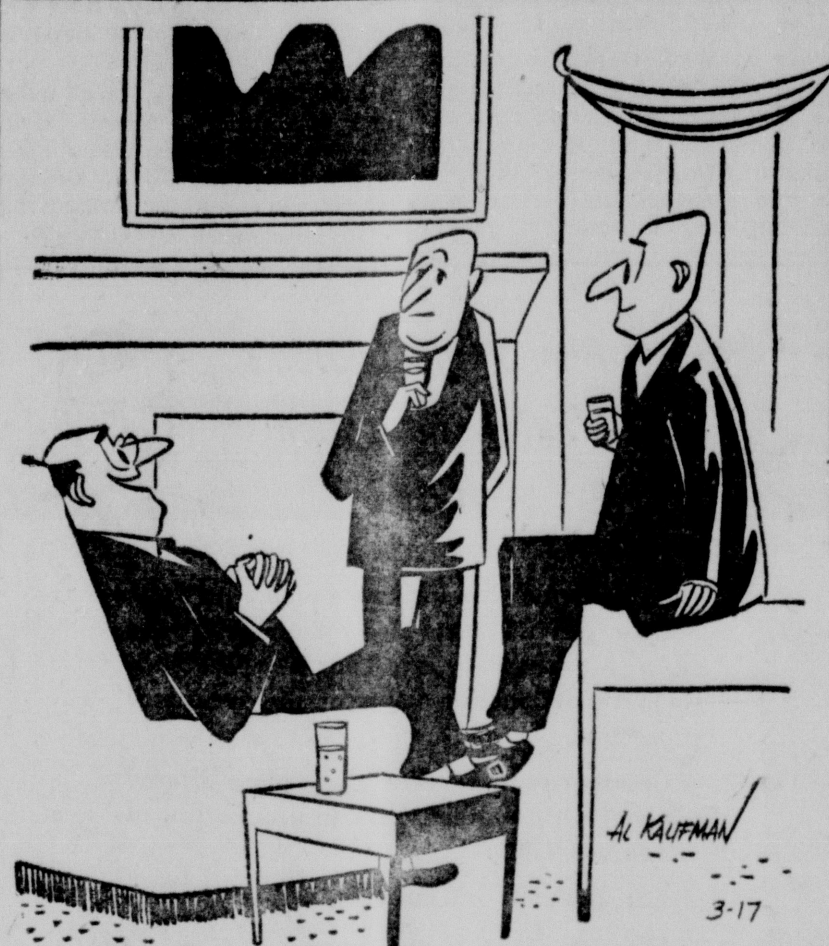

"Here again, between the lines of Byrnes' unemotional prose, the Red Monster is reaching out menacingly to gobble up all of God's children, and all good men and true must rally to halt its fiendish onrush and save Christianity, Capitalism and Civilization from annihilation."

True, Byrnes' prose is unemotional. But is there anything wrong in seeking to save "Christianity, Capitalism and Civilization from annihilation?"

Schuman beats his breast and shrieks: "The present writer has repeatedly written and said that these views are not only utterly nonsensical but that their propagation is dangerous to the point of criminality."

Then he adds that we are all liars. The American people have been fooled by their newspapers, radios, writers, clergymen, and "virtually all of their public leaders." I suppose by that he means that Stalin never swiped the countries noted above, that he never organized a fifth column in all those countries and in the United States, that the Russians never used their veto at UN to prevent a peace, that they never tried to get the Atom Bomb from us to use on us. No! Schuman undoubtedly feels that Stalin was just playing tidily winks between vodkas. Just a little fun, boys. Why get sore?

CHAPTER NINETEEN

THEY WALKED a little way without speaking. Then Kirk said, "I've been waiting to see you for two weeks..."

His voice was restrained. Kit asked a hushed and foolish, "Why?"

He stopped and looked down at her, frowning. "Why? I thought at least that we were friends. We had a very good beginning, a perfect beginning..."

She thought, I want to come close to you and put my arms around you, Kirk. I never wanted to do that before. I want to put my face close to yours and tell you how I feel. I don't feel quiet now. It's still wonderful but it isn't quiet... Instead her voice trembled when she said, "Kirk, I'm a stranger among strange people. I'm very young and unsophisticated. I've been told I'm not a guinea pig. I'm not an experiment. I have a job I'd like to keep. And I don't want kindness out of pity because I'm alone. I have to be cautious."

His frown deepened. "I haven't the least idea what you're talking about, Kit, or where you ever got such ideas. I've been thinking that there was something in your past, something that made the lights go out in Washington that made you go cold all at once..."

"There is something in the past but I can't talk about it."

"A man?"

"Yes, my..."

"A beginning is all we had, isn't it?" He smiled but there was no mirth in it. "I tried, Kit. Remember, I tried. Shall we go back now? Mike's probably looking for you."

"You—you go back. I'd like to stay for a while longer..."

She was shaking but not from cold when she saw him turn and walk toward the lighted house. What had she done? Why hadn't she explained herself? She thought, I can't think clearly. I can't even see you clearly, Kirk. Suppose I've misjudged you. Suppose Tracy was wrong. Suppose she was just jealous. Suppose I'm not a guinea pig, a toy, an experiment. But Mike said that after tonight everybody would know who Tracy's new man is. You... And Kirk, I'm not a girl to be kissed in dark corners while you dance in the light with Tracy...

Mike found her in the garden. He hoped that she would not notice that he was uneasy. He was sure that she did not know he was seeing two kits, both of them lovely.

"Having fun?"

"Not much, Mike."

"Neither am I even though I just won an argument. The party's a great success. Have you noticed? Tracy is queen of them all. She dotes on putting on a show like this. Why did Kirk come back alone?"

"I wanted to stay out longer."

Mike frowned. "Is he playing two games, you and Tracy's?"

"He isn't playing a game with me, Mike. Not now."

"Shouldn't have said that. That was hitting below the belt. Sorry, Kit..."

"He took her hands and pulled her gently to him. 'Kit, do you know what you make me think of? The pictures you see in magazines of a pretty fresh looking girl standing before a low rambling white house with green shutters. Sometimes there's a dog with her and sometimes there's a baby. Sometimes they're advertising house paint and sometimes grass seed. Anyway, that picture makes you long for a set-up like this...'

"It's clean and normal. Your imagination fills in the rest of the story. The little white gate opens at six or thereabouts and there's a young man coming home... I'm getting sentimental or romantic. I've been drinking a lot. I always drink too much. Did you know that? It makes me kid myself along if I drink enough."

"Let's walk, Mike."

"Okay." And as they walked along, he said, "I like you more than any girl I've ever known, Kit. You've got stardust in your eyes, the kind of stars a man could hitch a wagon to. I'm a big bluff, do you know that? I sneer at the idea of romantic love but I'd give my right arm to fall for a girl like a two-ton truck. It would be the pause that would make me get down to serious work. Do you know what somebody told me a long time ago... 'You have books in you, Mike. Good books...'

"Why don't you write them?"

But she was thinking. Why didn't I explain myself to Kirk? Everything is wrong.

"I am. By God, I am. Tomorrow..."

"But not if you drink."

He stopped and looked down at her, smiling. "You're a darling. Let's go back and dance. Tonight I feel as if anything can happen."

"That's how I feel, too."

They went back to the house and danced. Mike's long legs a little unsteady on the polished floor.

Looking at the people, looking for Kirk but not seeing him, Kit thought, Are you as mixed up as I? As Mike? I don't see Tracy either. They're probably out in the garden together, she and Kirk. Oh, why did I ever come to this place? Here's Mike who needs someone to shake him out of himself. And there's Tony and Anita. They're mixed up, too, mixed up and in love and afraid to be poor.

"Wouldn't you like to meet some of the people here?" Mike asked. "I know some of them. They're not bad."

"I'd rather not."

"Someday I'm going to have a house like this and give parties like this."

"Do you want to?"

"You sound plaintive. No, I don't. I want a house like the one in the advertisements for grass seed and paint. I want a girl like you waiting for me. I want to breathe air and not soot. I want to see trees and not my neighbor's laundry... Hey, what goes on?"

For suddenly the music went off key. Guests ceased dancing and rushed into the hall. A fight, Mike wondered? A fight at Tracy Field's party? That would be swell news. He would relish it. He'd like to see Tracy's fine party turn into a brawl! He could not see what was happening in the hall for the entrance was blocked with an excited crowd. The suspense was awful. Not to be in on the kill was not to be borne...

"Follow me," he ordered Kit abruptly.

"What's wrong, Mike? Can you see?"

"No. But I'm going to. I don't want to miss it. Here, give me your hand..."

They went out by way of the terrace doors. Then, circling the house, they entered again through the front entrance.

The music had stopped and a hundred guests stared with frozen faces. Kirk was carrying Tracy up the stairs. Kit could not see Tracy's face. But she saw a limp arm.

She and Mike stood very still. But when she moved to follow Kirk, Mike moved quickly after her. Tracy—fainting! He couldn't believe it. Then he remembered how tired she'd been looking lately.

RISK ONE TO GAIN TWO

WHEN the contract itself is at stake, it always pays to risk the loss of an otherwise apparently sure trick for a chance to take two in exchange. That applies with striking effect to a defender who wishes a particular suit led to him by his partner. It is sound defense in many such cases for him to lead a small card away from a suit in which he holds the ace, even if he sees a singleton in the dummy and knows he will doom his side to getting no trick in the suit unless his partner has the king.

YOU'RE Telling Me

Not one to be caught napping, Junior has already written his congressman urging him to write a law making it as impossible to ring a school bell in the months of June, July and August as it is to eat an oyster.

However, if the all-year school planners have their way the ole swimmin' hole might as well be another dried-up creek bed.

And, besides, how is Junior ever going to become a big league baseball star unless he can practice down at the corner lot?

Junior is right. This would be a sad old world indeed if, because of constant application to the three R's, roller skating, kite flying, top spinning and marbles should become lost arts.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—Ed Sorocki came up to the office yesterday. Outside, the temperature was around 30 and it was raining the cold, miserable rain of a Manhattan winter. But Ed wore his regular year-round costume—a thin T-shirt, slacks and shoes. He had come all the way from Brooklyn through the rain, dressed like that, so I could interview him, and en route he had had to submit to the customary, wearying indignity of an old lady seated next to him on the bus turning to him and saying, "Young man—are you crazy, dressing like that in this weather?"

The reason I wanted to interview him is because Ed Sorocki is one of those characters who go swimming off the Coney Island beach in the dead of winter.

You know; you see them in the newsreels; they have a club and they play ball on the beach while dressed only in trunks and they wallow around in piles of snow.

Here in New York we call them physical culture nuts. We laugh at them because their antics are a little off-center of what we call normal—but I wonder.

I remember meeting a New Jersey rug dealer named Coffing Arslanian, back in 1944, who lived in a tree. The tree was on top of a mountain in West Orange and I climbed a mile to see him. He was a physical culturist, too—and yet at 61, a little over twice my age, he looked just as young... and four times as strong and healthy.

When I got back to New York I called the well-known psychiatrist, Dr. Thomas Garrett, and he told me that living in a tree did not mean a man was daffy. "I don't blame the chap, personally," Dr. Garrett said. "I wish I had a tree."

Ever since then I have been completely cordial to physical culture bugs. So when Ed Sorocki turned up yesterday, I was so polite I even laid down my pipe out of regard for his sensitive lungs.

one of the most amiable. He is a vegetarian and a non-smoker and looks upon cake made with white flour the way the rest of us look upon opium. Also, he has no hair on his chest. He took off the T-shirt to show me, frightening two stenographers and intriguing one other, an earthier sort.

It was inevitable, of course, that Ed was a one-time invalid. All the physical culture advocates seem to have been; they get burned by disease or an ailment early in life and the experience is so searing that they run headlong from sickness for the rest of their days.

GENERALS AS PRESIDENTS

AT LAST a general has been found who is willing to run for President. Marshall and Eisenhower have refused, but MacArthur is ready. What has been American experience with military Presidents?

Professional soldiers should be distinguished from civilians who took part in the nation's wars. Washington, Jackson, the two Harrisons, Pierce, Hayes, Garfield, McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt all had military experience, but did not make the army their life work.

Only two Regular Army men became President, Taylor and Grant. While Taylor died after only a little more than a year in the presidency, he had already shown an unfamiliarity with political management, and a military insistence on having his orders obeyed, that was making trouble. A head-on collision between North and South was looming up, which veteran statesmen like Henry Clay were trying to stave off by compromise. Taylor opposed compromise; only his death made its passage possible, and postponed war for another ten years.

Grant's presidency was a tragic failure. He, too, was ignorant of political management, and his reliance on corrupt friends made his two terms the most sordid on record until the Harding administration equalled or surpassed them.

These are ominous precedents for MacArthur.

Causes of Mental Fatigue

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ALL work and no play has never seemed to be a good plan for living. And in these high-tension modern days, when nearly everybody works under stress of one kind or another, it is particularly bad.

It has often been said that hard work can harm nobody; that it is never responsible for physical or mental breakdowns. And yet Dr. Charles R. Rayburn of the University of Oklahoma Medical School, thinks that heavy, prolonged responsibility, plus long hours of hard work, with little rest or recreation, may eventually lead to a condition which he calls Mental Fatigue Syndrome. A syndrome is a group of symptoms.

Servicemen in Combat

The symptoms of this condition are like those which developed in servicemen during combat or in airmen after prolonged airplane flights.

In this so-called mental fatigue syndrome there are changes in the personality. The condition often develops in persons who have a strong, nervous make-up and who, consequently, may have been given extra responsibilities. The patients complain of a variety of physical disturbances, such as vague pains in various parts of the body, headache, and fatigue. But despite their complaints they resent sympathy and attention. They often try to be alone and may even decline any medical aid, but realizing that something is wrong they try to account for it by saying they are nervous.

In the Morning

As a rule, the symptoms are worse in the morning, while the patient feels better in the early afternoon. These patients are not worried about themselves, but they are restless, irritable, and unable to concentrate. Frequently, they are depressed.

Most of them will recover completely when their responsibilities are decreased and they are freed, in so far as possible, from fear, anxiety or emotional strain.

In all walks of life, recreational habits are important. Everyone should see to it that he gets enough time for rest and relaxation, and that relaxation is of the proper type. This in itself will do much to ward off the so-called mental fatigue state. In some cases, if the condition develops, a complete change of occupation may be necessary.

Another Condition

The mental fatigue state must not be confused with another condition, called neurasthenia, which develops in people suffering from emotional disturbances. These persons do not have a strong, nervous make-up and easily break down even under the problems of ordinary life.

The person with mental fatigue will recover with proper treatment. The one with neurasthenia often recovers much more slowly. The neurasthenic is anxious about himself and his physical health. He seeks sympathy at all times, and may go from physician to physician, looking for advice and medical counsel. Hence, when the symptoms of mental fatigue develop, the need of a specialist often is required to tell just what condition is present so that the most effective treatment may be utilized.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

L. J.: What type of eye disturbance is usually associated with an inflamed colon?

Answer: There is no special type of eye disturbance associated with inflammation of the colon.

If you have some sort of eye disorder, you should have an examination made by an eye specialist to determine just what condition is present.

She thought, I want to come close to you and put my arms around you, Kirk. I never wanted to do that before. I want to put my face close to yours and tell you how I feel. I don't feel quiet now. It's still wonderful but it isn't quiet... Instead her voice trembled when she said, "Kirk, I'm a stranger among strange people. I'm very young and unsophisticated, I've been told. I'm not a guinea pig. I'm not an experiment. I have a job I'd like to keep. And I don't want kindness out of pity because I'm alone. I have to be cautious."

His frown deepened. "I haven't the least idea what you're talking about, Kit, or where you ever got such ideas. I've been thinking that there was something in your past, something that made the lights go out in Washington that made you go cold all at once..."

"There is something in the past but I can't talk about it."

"A man?"

"Yes, My..."

"A beginning is all we had, isn't it?" He smiled but there was no mirth in it. "I tried, Kit. Remember, I tried. Shall we go back now? Mike's probably looking for you."

"You—you go back. I'd like to stay for a while longer..."

She was shaking but not from cold when she saw him turn and walk toward the lighted house. What had she done? Why hadn't she explained herself? She thought, I can't think clearly. I can't even see you clearly, Kirk. Suppose I've misjudged you. Suppose Tracy was wrong. Suppose I was just jealous. Suppose I'm not a guinea pig, a toy, an experiment. But Mike said that after tonight everybody would know who Tracy's new man is. You... And Kirk, I'm not a girl to be kissed in dark corners while you dance in the light with Tracy...

Mike found her in the garden. He hoped that she would not notice that he was uneasy. He was sure that she did not know he was seeing two kits, both of them lovely.

"Not much, Mike."

"Neither am I even though I just won an argument. The party's a great success. Have you noticed? Tracy is queen of them all. She dotes on putting on a show like this. Why did Kirk come back alone?"

"I wanted to stay out longer."

Mike frowned. "Is he playing two games, you, and Tracy's?"

"He isn't playing a game with me, Mike. Not now."

"Shouldn't have said that. That was hitting below the belt. Sorry, Kit..."

"He took her hands and pulled her gently to him. 'Kit, do you know what you make me think of? The pictures you see in magazines of a pretty fresh looking girl standing before a low rambling white house with green shutters. Sometimes there's a dog with her and sometimes there's a baby. Sometimes they're advertising house paint and sometimes grass seed. Anyway, that picture makes you long for a set-up like that... It's clean and normal. Your imagination fills in the rest of the story. The little white gate opens at six or thereabouts and there's a young man coming home... I'm getting sentimental or romantic. I've been drinking a lot. I always drink too much. Did you know that? It makes me kid myself along if I drink enough.'"

"Let's walk, Mike."

"Okay." And as they walked along, he said, "I like you more than any girl I've ever known, Kit. You've got stardust in your eyes, the kind of stars a man could hitch a wagon to. I'm a big bluff, do you know that? I sneer at the idea of romantic love but I'd give my right arm to fall for a girl like a two-ton truck. It would be the pause that would make me get down to serious work. Do you know what somebody told me a long time ago... 'You have books in you, Mike. Good books...'"

"Why don't you write them?"

"I was thinking, Why didn't I explain myself to Kirk? Everything is wrong."

"I am. By God, I am. Tomorrow..."

"But not if you drink."

He stopped and looked down at her, smiling. "You're a darling. Let's go back and dance. Tonight I feel as if anything can happen."

"That's how I feel, too."

They went back to the house and danced, Mike's long legs a little unsteady on the polished floor.

Looking at the people, looking for Kirk but not seeing him, Kit thought, Are you as mixed up as I am Mike? I don't see Tracy either. They're probably out in the garden together, she and Kirk. Oh, why did I ever come to this place? Here's Mike who needs someone to shake him out of himself. And there's Tony and Anita. They're mixed up, too, mixed up and in love and afraid to be poor. Wouldn't you like to meet some of the people here? Mike asked, "I know some of them. They're not bad."

"I'd rather not."

"Someday I'm going to have a house like this and give parties like this."

"Do you want to?"

"You sound plaintive. No, I don't. I want a house like the one in the advertisements for grass seed and paint. I want a girl like you waiting for me. I want to breathe air and not soot. I want to see trees and not my neighbor's laundry... Hey, what goes on?"

For suddenly the music went off. Guests ceased dancing and rushed into the hall. A fight, Mike wondered? A fight at Tracy Field's party? That would be swell news. He would relish it. He'd like to see Tracy's fine party turn into a brawl! He could not see what was happening in the hall for the entrance was blocked with an excited crowd. The suspense was awful. Not to be in on the kill was not to be borne...

"Follow me," he ordered Kit abruptly.

"What's wrong, Mike? Can you see?"

"No. But I'm going to. I don't want to miss it. Here, give me your hand..."

They went out by way of the terrace doors. Then, circling the house, they entered again through the front entrance.

The music had stopped and a hundred guests stared with frozen faces. Kirk was carrying Tracy up the stairs. Kit could not see Tracy's face. But she saw a limp arm.

She and Mike stood very still. But when she moved to follow Kirk, Tracy—fainting! He couldn't believe it. Then he remembered how tired she'd been looking lately.

"The Authority on Authorities"

RISK ONE TO GAIN TWO

WHEN the contract itself is at stake, it always pays to risk the loss of an otherwise apparently sure trick for a chance to take two in exchange. That applies with striking effect to a defender who wishes a particular suit led to him by his partner. It is sound defense in many such cases for him to lead a small card away from a suit in which he holds the ace, even if he sees a singleton in the dummy and knows he will doom his side to getting no trick in the suit unless his partner has the king.

YOU'RE Telling Me

Not one to be caught napping, Junior has already written his congressman urging him to write a law making it as impossible to ring a school bell in the months of June, July and August as it is to eat an oyster.

However, if the all-year school planners have their way the old swimmin' hole might as well be another dried-up creek bed.

And, besides, how is Junior ever going to become a big league baseball star unless he can practice down at the corner lot?

Junior is right. This would be a sad old world indeed if, because of constant application to the three R's, roller skating, kite flying, top spinning and marbles should become lost arts.

"There is No Substitute for Fair Dealing"

NEW YORK—Ed Sorocki came up to the office yesterday. Outside, the temperature was around 30 and it was raining the cold, miserable rain of a Manhattan winter. But Ed wore his regular year-round costume—a thin T-shirt, slacks and shoes. He had come all the way from Brooklyn through the rain, dressed like that, so I could interview him, and en route he had had to submit to the customary, wearying indignity of an old lady seated next to him on the bus turning to him and saying, "Young man—are you crazy, dressing like that in this weather?"

The reason I wanted to interview him is because Ed Sorocki is one of those characters who go swimming off the Coney Island beach in the dead of winter.

You know; you see them in the newsreels; they have a club and they play ball on the beach while dressed only in trunks and they wallow around in piles of snow.

Here in New York we call them physical culture nuts. We laugh at them because their antics are a little off-center of what we call normal—but I wonder.

I remember meeting a New Jersey rug dealer named Cofing Arslanian, back in 1944, who lived in a tree. The tree was on top of a mountain in West Orange and I climbed a mile to see him. He was a physical culturist, too—and yet at 61, a little over twice my age, he looked just as young... and four times as strong and healthy.

When I got back to New York I called the well-known psychiatrist, Dr. Thomas Garrett, and he told me that living in a tree did not mean a man was daffy. "I don't blame the chap, personally," Dr. Garrett said. "I wish I had a tree."

Ever since then I have been completely cordial to physical culture bugs. So when Ed Sorocki turned up yesterday, I was so polite I even laid down my pipe out of regard for his sensitive lungs.

"I AM SUCH A FINELY-TURNED piece of physical machinery," Ed Sorocki explained to me, "that I can smell a stinking cigar the length of a railroad car." Ed is half-English, half-Cherokee Indian, and the old lady on the bus made a big mistake. He is not young. He is 49 and a grandfather.

Ed is possibly the most talkative guy in the world and certainly one of the most amiable. He is a vegetarian and a non-smoker and looks upon cake made with white flour the way the rest of us look upon opium. Also, he has no hair on his chest. He took off the T-shirt to show me, frightening two stenographers and intriguing one other, an earthier sort.

Cosmetics And Drugs Discussed At Monday Club

Monday Club met in the trustees room of Memorial hall as Mrs. Melvin Kiger conducted the business meeting and the program was turned over to Mrs. Charles T. Gilmore who introduced the speakers, Miss Carrie Johnson and Mrs. Barton Deming.

Miss Johnson spoke on "drugs." She said, "ten years ago the doctors of the American Medical Association gathered for a most exciting meeting because one word was on all lips—sulfanilamide—a word new to most medical vocabularies. The age of miracle drugs had opened. About 1937 sulpha drugs appeared, sulfathiazole and sulfadiazine. Before sulfa and penicillin were discovered the mortality from scarlet fever was great. Approximately 2000 children died in a year. In 1938 it was fatal only to 150. In 1937 pneumonia claimed the lives of 110,000 people. The following year, due to the use of sulfa and penicillin, a little over 60,000 lives were lost."

Mrs. Deming told how beauty aids had been used since the dawn of history for the same reason they are used today. She told the group that "the word cosmetics stems from the Greek word 'kosmos', meaning to adorn. Many of the oldest relics we have of early civilization are small cosmetic jars and boxes made by the people who have left little else by which to judge them. Egyptian excavation dating back as far as 500 B. C. have revealed that the Egyptians were familiar with ointments, powders and perfumes which were used in religious rituals and by both men and women for adornment. The ancient Greeks were well advanced in the art of making perfumes and cosmetics as were the Romans.

"Some of these old Roman cosmetics were not unlike some of those of today. It was not until the Crusaders returned from the Holy Land and Southern Europe that cosmetics and perfumes were introduced into Central and Northern Europe. Before long the French, Germans and Eng-

Educators Hear State Aide Warn. Consolidations Considered 'Musts'

Education leaders from the eastern half of Pickaway County Tuesday night heard a two-hour lecture by a state official which, boiled down to one sentence, bluntly meant:

"Unless the county system of schools is modernized and consolidated by community action, that move will be consummated by state law."

Speaker was A. D. St. Clair, field agent for the state department of education. His audience, meeting in Pickaway County courthouse, was comprised of the county board of education and boards of education from the eastern half of the county.

St. Clair, a quiet-spoken man who once taught in an old fashioned one-room country school, told of the development in modern education methods and demands.

HE STRESSED that "too many Ohio schools today are not giving our youngsters the education they deserve."

Speaking quietly as he traced the consolidation movement throughout the state, St. Clair gradually built up to his denouement:

"The state legislature, probably next session, will pass a law cutting down each county's schools districts to about four."

He said one little-publicized movement is now afoot which would make one district to a county. Last session of the state assembly almost approved the four-district move.

The Morrison bill passed the state senate, was defeated by a narrow margin in the house.

"Next time, the bill will pass without hesitation," he said.

Speaking directly of the Pickaway County problem, which concerns 11 high schools and a few more elementary schools, St. Clair urged his listeners to "set up your own redistricting before the state does it for you."

He said the new thought in school consolidation came with modern transportation. Present districting dates back more than a generation when travel was slow.

TODAY, HOWEVER, school buses shuttle their passengers to and from schools with swiftness and efficiency. The procedure can be tightened even more, state legislators believe.

St. Clair said state lawmakers are of the opinion that consolidation would provide more value for each dollar received and that larger schools would mean a wider range of studies for students.

The state official cited that few small high schools today are able to offer acceptable courses in science, manual arts and home economics because they are unable to finance facilities or lack sufficient interested students.

St. Clair said it is "impossible for a little high school—say with 75 students—to offer a good course which includes practical things like shop and home economics and commercial.

But since they do not have this equipment or the proper instructors, they cram down the throats of students such old-fashioned stuff as Latin and algebra. What good does that do a future auto mechanic or a future homemaker?"

An ideal setup in Pickaway County, St. Clair said, would be the creation of two high schools, one for the eastern half of the county, one for the west.

As a preliminary move to complete consolidation, St. Clair suggested that the eastern half of the county reshuffle its students, allowing more room for some high school classes and more students in existing buildings for elementary students. There are about 250 high school students in the eastern half of the county.

"SOMETHING must be done soon for Washington Township," he said. This high school was abandoned with the end of the 1946-47 academic year and the 30-odd high school students sent to the Circleville system.

"It is evident that this trial is

Liquor Agents Are Indicted

YOUNGSTOWN, March 17—A pair of state liquor agents were under indictment today by the Mahoning County grand jury on charges of seeking bribes from a Youngstown owner.

The indicted men are Joseph Holland of Cleveland and Leonard Straus of Middletown.

They are accused of demanding bribes of from $2,000 to $2,500 from Paul Alvino, operator of the R-Villa Night Club, a few miles west of Youngstown. Alvino said the agents asked for the money when they allegedly found the tavern selling liquor on Sunday.

students living in nearby Walnut and Pickaway districts be transferred to Washington to relieve congestion in the lower grades.

He emphasized that although his suggestions were merely suggestions, "action should be taken locally at community volition before the state steps in."

"We must make up our minds to one thing," St. Clair declared. "And that is this: we must put the welfare of our children ahead of our adult personal pride."

Although there was considerable discussion on the matter following St. Clair's address, no action was taken. Each individual board of education was asked to discuss the matter and then report its recommendations to the county board.

St. Clair reminded local boards that "the county board has the sole right to create new districts."

April Set For Cancer Fund Aid

Proclamation Cites Evils Of Disease

Circleville Mayor Thurman I. Miller Wednesday proclaimed April as "Cancer Control Month" as the Pickaway County branch of the American Cancer Society announced it would hold a month-long campaign to raise $2,000 here to aid in the national fight against the dread disease.

The county's campaign chairman, according to an announcement from Columbus headquarters will be Clarence Rushing, Route 1, local railroad.

Rushing, who this week started a two-week vacation, said he would devote the full time to get the campaign under way.

Vice-chairman of the local drive is Paul A. Johnson of Circleville while the assistant vice-chairman is August W. Graf, also of this city. Mrs. Mary L. Sines is secretary.

RUSHING SAID the county campaign would include concentrated canvassing of both residential and business areas in the entire county.

He pointed to "two startling facts" in Mayor Miller's proclamation. They are that "every three minutes someone dies of cancer" and "one of every two homes will be stricken by the disease."

Money derived from the local campaign will be turned over to the national organization for use in research and treatment of the disease.

Complete text of the proclamation follows:

"Whereas, the people of the city of Circleville have always shown a progressive spirit in responding to public appeals when such causes are just and worthy and because the month of April has been declared 'Cancer Control Month' by proclamation of the President of the United States and by the governor of the state of Ohio and

"Whereas, on the average, every three minutes someone dies of cancer and one of every two homes in this city will be stricken by cancer unless the death rate of this dread disease is soon lessened, I, Thurman I. Miller, mayor of the city of Circleville, do hereby proclaim April as Cancer Control Month and request that the citizens of this city do observe it as such.

"I further request that all individuals, institutions, business and organizations within this city cooperate and assist the American Cancer Society in its campaign during April."

Signed, Thurman I. Miller.

Many Cities Revive Curfew

WASHINGTON, March 17—Many cities are adopting or reviving curfews in efforts to curb after-dark juvenile delinquency. The American Municipal Association reports that though more than 3,000 U. S. communities have at some time adopted curfews to keep juveniles off the streets after a certain hour, most of these ordinances are enforced only periodically.

Chicago recently oiled up its 25-year old curfew law and set the enforcement machinery going. The ordinance requires persons under 18 to be inside by 10 o'clock at night. Parents of night-wandering juveniles are subject to arrest and fines up to $100.

Even Hosiery Has 'New Look'

LONDON, March 17—Now there's a "new look" for stockings. A recent hose "color card" announced that five shades of beige and one of tan are the new shades for the spring and summer ranges of women's stockings.

However one wag asked indignantly: "If modern women hide their legs with 'new look' frocks why bother about stockings?"

Baby Market Laws Cited

WASHINGTON, March 17—The "sellers' market" in babies is hastening revision of many state adoption laws to protect both infants and parents.

Reports cited by the American Public Welfare Association indicate that most state adoption legislation, recently passed or proposed, aims at curbing the black market in adoptions or at modernizing outmoded adoption statutes. Sixteen states revised adoption laws last year and 1948 legislatures are considering other changes.

April Set For Cancer Fund Aid

Proclamation Cites Evils Of Disease

Circleville Mayor Thurman I. Miller Wednesday proclaimed April as "Cancer Control Month" as the Pickaway County branch of the American Cancer Society announced it would hold a month-long campaign to raise $2,000 here to aid in the national fight against the dread disease.

The county's campaign chairman, according to an announcement from Columbus headquarters will be Clarence Rushing, Route 1, local rail-roader.

Rushing, who this week started a two-week vacation, said he would devote the full time to get the campaign under way.

Vice-chairman of the local drive is Paul A. Johnson of Circleville while the assistant vice-chairman is August W. Graf, also of this city. Mrs. Mary L. Sines is secretary.

RUSHING SAID the county campaign would include concentrated canvassing of both residential and business areas in the entire county.

He pointed to "two startling facts" in Mayor Miller's proclamation. They are that "every three minutes someone dies of cancer" and "one of every two homes will be stricken by the disease."

Money derived from the local campaign will be turned over to the national organization for use in research and treatment of the disease.

Complete text of the proclamation follows:

"Whereas, the people of the city of Circleville have always shown a progressive spirit in responding to public appeals when such causes are just and worthy and because the month of April has been declared 'cancer control month' by proclamation of the President of the United States and by the governor of the state of Ohio and

"Whereas, on the average, every three minutes someone dies of cancer and one of every two homes in this city will be stricken by cancer unless the death rate of this dread disease is soon lessened, I, Thurman I. Miller, mayor of the city of Circleville, do hereby proclaim April as Cancer Control Month and request that the citizens of this city do observe it as such.

"I further request that all individuals, institutions, business and organizations within this city cooperate and assist the American Cancer Society in its campaign during April."

Signed, Thurman I. Miller.

Many Cities Revive Curfew

WASHINGTON, March 17—Many cities are adopting or reviving curfews in efforts to curb after-dark juvenile delinquency. The American Municipal Association reports that though more than 3,000 U. S. communities have at some time adopted curfews to keep juveniles off the streets after a certain hour, most of these ordinances are enforced only periodically.

Chicago recently oiled up its 25-year old curfew law and set the enforcement machinery moving. The ordinance requires persons under 18 to be inside by 10 o'clock at night. Parents of night-wandering juveniles are subject to arrest and fines up to $100.

Special Forms For Kin Of Heroes Ready

Next of kin of the 65 deceased Pickaway County veterans may now obtain bonus application Form No. 2 at the office of James P. Shea, local veterans service officer, in the court-house.

Approximately 25,000 copies of the form and an equal number of pre-addressed return envelopes for eligible next of kin of dead Ohio veterans have been distributed to each county bonus representative in Ohio, Shea disclosed.

The forms will be made available to county volunteer distributing agencies which will make a specialty of offering advice and counseling service to the surviving widows, children or parents wishing to make applications.

Other distribution points in the county are the Red Cross, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Guy Cline in Ashville, First National Bank in New Holland and American Legion in Williamsport.

3 County Road Projects Set

Three highway projects in Pickaway County are scheduled for completion by Aug. 15, at an estimated cost of $40,307 with bids to be opened March 30 by the Ohio department of highways.

The proposed road improvements include applications of bituminous treatment on nine and one-half miles of State Route 277 in Deercreek and Perry township one and one-half miles of State Route 188 in Walnut township, and almost two miles of State Route 361 in Pickaway township.

In all, the highway department has outlined projects in 55 counties with costs totalling more than $1,500,000, Director Earl L. Reeb announced.

Pettibones Eye Thursday Foe With Trembling

The Ashville Pettibones returned home from the Jackson Gold Medal tournament Tuesday night jubilant about their first victory in the tourney over the Scioto View Inn team from Chillicothe, but quaking in anticipation as to what the results of their next game might be.

The Ashvillers trimmed the Chillicothe team 56-36 in the Tuesday tilt, Bernard Walden hitting 19 tallies for high scoring honors of the match and Bob Moon trailing with a total of 17 markers for the Pettibones.

However, when they finished their work with the Scioto View Inn and looked around to see what team they were to meet Thursday night, they slowed down in their enthusiasm.

Their Thursday night's foe is the Kentucky Rocket team, the same team which whipped the socks off them at Wellston last Thursday night by a 99-48 final. Hopes of Pettibone followers are dim Wednesday, and speculation that the Ashville team might cop top honors at the Gold Medal meet this year, as it did last, was slowed to a standstill.

The Pettibones are slated to tangle with the Kentuckians at 8 p. m. Thursday.

Pettibones Eye

Thursday Foe

With Trembling

The Ashville Pettibones returned homeward from the Jackson Gold Medal tournament Tuesday night jubilant after their first victory in the tourney over the Scio to View Inn team from Chillicothe, but quaking in anticipation as to what the results of their next game might be.

The Ashvillers trimmed the Chillicothe team 56-36 in the Tuesday tilt, Bernard Walden hitting 19 tallies for high scoring honors of the match and Bob Moon trailing with a total of 17 markers for the Pettibones.

However, when they finished their work with the Scio to View Inn and looked around to see what team they were to meet Thursday night, they slowed down in their enthusiasm.

Their Thursday night's foe is the Kentucky Rocket team, the same team which whipped the socks off them at Wellston last Thursday night by a 99-48 final.

Hopes of Pettibone followers are dim Wednesday, and speculation that the Ashville team might top top honors at the Gold Medal meet this year, as it did last, was slowed to a standstill.

The Pettibones are slated to tangle with the Kentuckians at 8 p. m. Thursday.

YOUR FUTURE
Don't neglect business, but try to put improvements into operation. Do not go to extremes, however. A year of success and happiness is ahead of you. Watch expenditure and avoid the law. Utilize fully the enterprising spirit and energy that will be given you.

MODERN MANNERS
It is permissible for a college girl to speak to a man whom she sees frequently on the campus and who is a member of her class, whether she has been formally introduced or not. At some colleges everybody speaks after the big all-college party at the last weekend.

$15,000 Unit Draws Top Interest

Outfit Tours County Cities

Pickaway Countians Tuesday afternoon got an insight into why crime doesn't pay when the state's new $15,000 crime laboratory on wheels was opened for public inspection in Circleville.

The ton and one-half crime car arrived in Circleville at 2 p. m. escorted by Sheriff Charles Radcliff, president of the Buckeye State Sheriff's Association, and Deputy Sheriff Vern L. Pontius.

Local law-enforcement officials on hand to view the laboratory beside Radcliff were Mayor Thurman I. Miller, County Prosecutor Kenneth Robbins and Chief of Police William F. McCrady.

First to view the latest development in mobile crime detection was Ashville. Radcliff said the laboratory also would make scheduled stops in New Holland and Williamsport.

THE UNIT was donated to the state last week by the Ohio Moose Association and the sheriff's association. Only New York and Illinois have similar equipment, Radcliff revealed.

Before the fully equipped panel truck was backed onto the paved apron on the north side of the courthouse, a gathering of some 25 or 30 persons began milling around the vehicle. In less than 15 minutes the inspection line grew into about 100 persons.

Officials on hand to display the new equipment were William McElroy, executive secretary of the sheriff's association; O. H. Cornwell, superintendent of the bureau of investigation at London prison farm; E. E. Galloway and Fred Dengler, investigators for the bureau.

A trip through the car revealed it was equipped with everything but the gallows.

Some of the crime detection equipment included microscopes, fingerprinting devices, rope electric extensions, flood lights, recorders, ballistics testers, photographic paraphernalia including a dark room, lie detector, rope and sundry safety equipment.

Worm Medicine, Gifts Given

KYOTO, Japan, March 17—Almost 3,000 Japanese youngsters lined up before St. Francis Xavier Church recently to receive a dose of worm medicine plus a gift of persimmons and vitamin tablets.

The large scale worm dosing was arranged by Rev. Leo Steinbach, a Maryknoll priest from Charlton, Iowa, who has gained a reputation among Japanese officials for his widespread relief work.

Amputee Auto Deadline Set At June 30

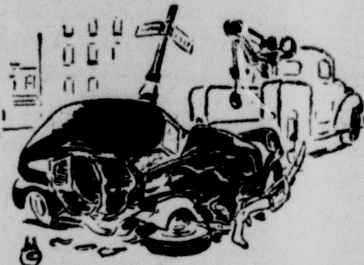

The deadline for applications for vehicles at government expense under the "autos for amputees" program is June 30, James P. Shea, Pickaway County veterans service officer said Wednesday.

He said eligible veterans should submit their applications to the Veterans Administration at least 15 days prior to the deadline to allow an ample processing period.

Latest VA figures show that 1,074 seriously disabled World War II veterans in Ohio have received vehicles at government expense since this law was passed by Congress in August, 1946. Cost of the vehicles has been $1,708,923.

The law provides an auto-bile or other conveyance at a cost not to exceed $1,600, for any World War II veteran who lost, or lost the use of, one or both legs at or above the ankle as the result of service-incurred injuries, Shea explained.

THE HIGH COST OF ACCIDENT

One accident on a trip around the block could make you the defendant in a damage suit for thousands of dollars.
